Cryogenic OGS Limited's Subsidiary Infravolt Engineering Private Limited Secures Landmark Order from FIMER for Precision Copper Components in Solar Inverters

This milestone win marks our strategic entry into the renewable energy supply chain, underscoring our commitment to diversify across the broader energy ecosystem.

We are glad to announce today that our newly incorporated subsidiary, Infravolt Engineering Private Limited, has secured a significant order from FIMER, a global leader in solar inverter technology, for the supply of high-precision copper components. These components are precision-engineered to be integrated into FIMER's advanced solar inverter product range.

The incorporation of Infravolt Engineering Private Limited represents a deliberate and considered step by Cryogenic OGS Limited to broaden its industrial footprint beyond its core competencies. We are actively positioning Ourselves as a diversified participant in the energy ecosystem, with a focused strategy spanning solar energy infrastructure and railway electrification systems — two of India's fastest-growing capital investment sectors.

This order from FIMER is a validation of Infravolt's precision manufacturing capabilities and signals the Group's ability to compete and deliver at the highest levels of quality demanded by global OEMs. Precision copper components are critical to the efficiency and thermal performance of high-capacity solar inverters, and Infravolt's engineering expertise positions it as a reliable long-term supply chain partner in the clean energy transition.

Looking ahead, Infravolt Engineering Private Limited intends to deepen its engagement with renewable energy OEMs and expand its portfolio of precision-engineered electrical components for the solar and railway sectors.
