- Export performance during the quarter improved although it remains impacted by ongoing geopolitical disruption, which is affecting shipment schedules and order flows.
- All the supplies against order under PM Vishwakarma Scheme was completed in Q1, as such toolkit sales were absent in this quarter.

Athleisure Segment:

- Commissioning of the new sports shoes manufacturing facility at Kundli has increased production capacity by 150% from 1 lakh to 2.5 lakh pairs per month, with a phased expansion plan to reach 5 lakh pairs per month. The technology-enabled facility, supported by an in-house design studio, is expected to strengthen the Company's ability to cater to larger OEM orders, accelerate product development and expand its presence in the domestic and international sports footwear markets.
- The Company appointed Bollywood actor Rajkummar Rao as the brand ambassador for its in-house athleisure brand, Rannr. This association is aimed at enhancing brand visibility, strengthening consumer connect and accelerating brand recognition across India's growing sports and athleisure footwear market.
- The Company remains focused on strengthening existing OEM relationships and securing additional business opportunities, leveraging its manufacturing capabilities and growing customer relationships.

Open Footwear:

- Domestic sales were stable amidst modest consumer sentiments consequent to high inflation and other macro disturbances.

- Increasing presence across large format stores such as D-mart & Reliance Retail expected to be the new growth levers for this business segment.

Commenting on the performance, Mr. Raj Kumar Agarwal, Chairman of Lehar Footwears Limited said: "We are pleased with the strong performance of our core footwear business, which continues to witness healthy traction across OEM and own-brand segments. With the commissioning of our new sports footwear facility at Kundli, we have significantly enhanced our manufacturing capabilities, positioning us to capture larger OEM opportunities and strengthen our presence in the growing athleisure market. The launch of Rannr, supported by our brand ambassador Rajkummar Rao, further strengthens our consumer-focused strategy. Going forward, we remain focused on sustainable growth, expanding our customer base and improving our product mix".
