31.08.2026: Despite the previous orders passed by us, we had issued bailable warrants to the appellant, he is not present today, he has joined the proceedings through video conferencing. He pleads that his mother is ill and he is attending upon her. He ought to have made an alternative arrangement for someone to attend to her and should have complied with the orders which he is avoiding for quite a long time. If the appellant doesn't appear before this Tribunal tomorrow at 10.30 A.M. we will be constrained to get him arrested and produced before this Tribunal.

List this contempt case on 01.09.2026.
