TCS wins multi-year deal to transform Elopak's IT Operations

TCS will deploy its proprietary AI-service delivery suite of solutions - Cognix™ for advanced analytics and automation to modernise Elopak's global IT operations using AI and cloud for greater agility and efficiency

OSLO | MUMBAI, June 17, 2026: Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) (BSE: 532540, NSE: TCS), a leading global IT services, consulting, and business solutions company, has announced a multi-year partnership with Elopak ASA, a global leader in paper-based packaging and filling equipment, operating in over 40 countries and serving customers in more than 70 markets.

Under this partnership, TCS will be Elopak's strategic IT partner, leading the transformation and management of its global IT s through a process centric operating model. This will help Elopak's IT operations to be better aligned with the business priorities thereby improving agility, efficiency, and digital experience

Leveraging its AI-first approach, TCS will deploy advanced analytics and automation capabilities, including its proprietary Cognix™ – an AI-powered, future-ready service delivery suite of solutions built on its Machine First™ philosophy.

The strategic IT programme will support Elopak's strategy to modernise its end-to-end IT services. This include setting up an integrated service desk and upgrading key enterprise applications.

Merethe Johansen, CIO at Elopak, said, “Our partnership with TCS represents a significant step in advancing our digital ambitions and strengthening our global operations. By modernizing our IT landscape and leveraging AI-driven capabilities, we aim to improve efficiency, enhance user experience and support our growth objectives as we move towards our 2030 vision driving above-market growth, and advancing our strategic priorities.”

Anupam Singhal, President - Manufacturing, TCS, said, “In an increasingly connected and intelligent business environment, enterprises need digital foundations that can continuously adapt and evolve. Through this partnership, we will help Elopak modernize its IT operations with AI, automation, and cloud, enabling greater agility, operational efficiency, and user experience across its global business. Together, we look forward to supporting Elopak's growth strategy and sustainability ambitions as it continues to deliver innovative and sustainable packaging solutions to customers and consumers around the world.”

Amit Pethe, Country Head, TCS Norway, said: “Elopak is a global leader with a strong heritage of innovation and sustainability. We are proud to partner with them on their transformation journey. By combining TCS' AI-led capabilities with deep domain expertise, we will help build a resilient, agile, and intelligent IT ecosystem that supports Elopak's long-term growth and enhances its global competitiveness.”

Elopak's strategic roadmap focuses on driving market growth, strengthening its leadership in paper-based packaging, and advancing sustainability by reducing reliance on plastics. The partnership with TCS will play a critical role in enabling these priorities by creating a robust digital backbone that supports innovation, responsiveness to evolving market demands, and enhanced customer engagement and service delivery.

This collaboration further strengthens TCS' presence in the Nordic region and reinforces its position as a trusted partner for global enterprises seeking to accelerate digital transformation through AI and cloud-led innovation. With a strong and growing footprint across the Nordics—including multiple offices and delivery centers in key markets such as Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Finland—TCS continues to invest in local talent and long-term partnerships. Recognized as a Great Place to Work across the region, TCS combines deep domain expertise with a people-first culture, further enhancing its reputation as an employer and partner of choice for organizations driving innovation and sustainable growth.
