After Q4 gush, a slower flow for pipe makers

PVC price swings, muted rural demand cloud near-term outlook

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 8/June

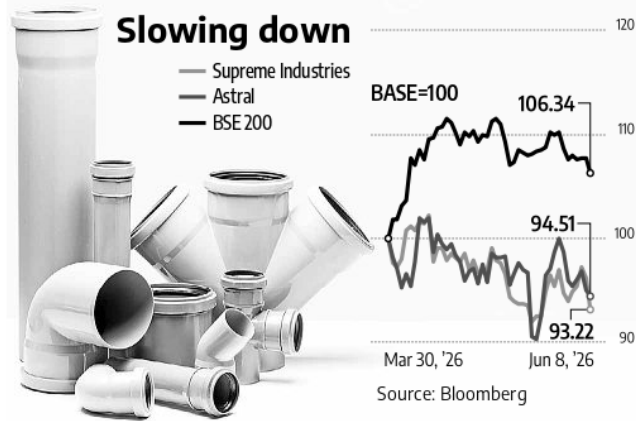

The fourth-quarter (January-March/Q4) performance of plastic pipe makers in 2025-26 (FY26) was better than expected, with volumes and revenues hitting multi-quarter highs. Along with strong seasonal demand and a low base, restocking by trade channels ahead of price hikes also supported topline growth.

While leading listed pipe makers gained market share, they also reported healthy margins driven by better realisations. Though the Q4 performance was strong, some of the gains have been offset in the first quarter (April-June/Q1) of 2026-27 (FY27) amid volatility in polyvinyl chloride (PVC) prices and weaker demand.

Stocks in the sector, excluding Prince Pipes and Fittings, have generated negative returns over the past three months. While brokerages expect near-term headwinds on both demand and margin fronts, they believe volumes will improve over the medium term, supported by rising demand from the housing, agriculture, and infrastructure sectors.

The recovery in the plastic pipe sector was largely driven by strong demand and dealer stocking amid a sharp rise in PVC resin prices. PVC resin prices surged 64 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) during the quarter due to global supply disruptions, geopolitical tensions in West Asia, elevated crude oil prices, and tighter petrochemical supply conditions. The sharp rise triggered advance buying and inventory replenishment by dealers and distributors after multiple quarters of lean inventory levels.

Motilal Oswal Research pointed out that January and February saw a gradual improvement in plumbing demand, infrastructure activity, and channel restocking. However, the recovery accelerated sharply in March 2026 as PVC resin prices surged to $1,150 per tonne and were up 85 per cent sequentially amid global supply disruptions and tensions in West Asia, triggering aggressive advance buying and inventory-led stocking.

According to ICICI Securities analysts Arun Baid and Nikunj Shah, the sector saw healthy sales volumes and profitability in Q4 due to the peak demand season, market-share gains by organised players, and restocking by channel partners as PVC prices rose during the quarter. Except for Finolex Industries, pipe volumes grew a healthy 18.3 per cent to 24.2 per cent over the year-ago quarter.

Operating profit and margins remained strong in Q4 due to a better product mix, global realisations, inventory gains, and healthy volume growth, which resulted in operating leverage. Margins for major players expanded by 2-10 percentage points on a Y-o-Y basis.

While Q4 was strong, demand conditions have worsened since then. According to 360 One Capital Research, Q1FY27 began on a softer note, reflecting channel destocking amid PVC price volatility and weaker construction activity across key end markets. Plumbing demand weakened, especially in May, although demand has picked up since last week. Agricultural pipe demand remained weaker than expected during April and May as farmers deferred purchases in anticipation of lower pipe prices. Demand from government water projects such as the Jal Jeevan Mission, irrigation, and sewerage projects also remained weak.

However, analysts Amit Srivastava and Varun Julasaria of the brokerage pointed out that demand has improved over the past two weeks, while a below-normal monsoon forecast is expected to drive irrigation demand and support volume recovery in June and July.

ICICI Securities noted that organised players such as Astral, Supreme Industries, Prince Pipes, and Finolex have gained market share even as the PVC pipe industry contracted 9 per cent in FY26. Pipe volume growth for organised players is likely to remain healthy as PVC prices have now stabilised and moved closer to historical levels. Profitability, too, should normalise going ahead due to the absence of inventory losses, as PVC prices are now within the historical range. The brokerage has a 'buy' rating on Astral and Prince Pipes, and an 'add' rating on Supreme and Finolex.

Gold ETFs: Do May outflows signal a need for caution?

KARTHIK JEROME

Gold exchange-traded funds (ETFs) in India saw net outflows of US$61 million (₹582 crore), equivalent to 0.4 tonnes, in May, reducing total holdings to 116.3 tonnes, according to data from the World Gold Council. This marked the first monthly outflow in a year.

Meanwhile, HDFC Asset Management Company (AMC) has restricted lump-sum purchases and switch-ins in HDFC Gold ETF Fund of Fund to ₹10 lakh per permanent account number (PAN) per calendar month.

Gold funds have risen 57.1 per cent over the past year but have corrected 4 per cent in the past three months.

What triggered the outflows
Investors moved money from the yellow metal to riskier assets. "Investors rotated money from defensive assets into risk assets such as equities as risk sentiment improved and opportunities emerged in growth-oriented sectors," says Vikram Dhawan, head commodities and fund manager, Nippon India Mutual Fund.

Import restrictions and supply constraints in the domestic bullion market led to increased utilisation of ETF inventories to meet physical demand.

The spike in crude oil prices increased inflation-related concerns. "The higher probability of an interest rate hike, rather than a rate cut, and a spike in yields acted as headwinds," says Deveya Gagliani, senior research analyst - commodities, Axis Direct. Gold tends to underperform when real interest rates move higher.

Gold prices have already rallied a lot. "Investors booked profits after the strong rally in gold paused," says Siddharth Srivastava, head - ETF product & fund manager, Mirae Asset Mutual Fund.

Long-term support intact
The case for long-term investment in gold, however, remains intact. "It is anchored in the expansion of sovereign balance sheets and the rise in global debt levels," says Dhawan.

The gradual diversification of global reserves away from the US dollar is another factor that will continue to provide support to gold over the long term. Central banks have continued to accumulate the yellow metal despite historically elevated prices. "Central bank purchases in the first quarter of 2026 remained above long-term averages," says Dhawan.

Ongoing geopolitical uncertainty also supports gold's performance.

Factors that could weigh on rally

Weak jewellery demand, particularly in India, remains the most immediate headwind for gold. "Record-high prices have reduced affordability and led to softening of consumer demand," says Dhawan.

Bouts of volatility in equity markets also cause exits from gold by forcing investors to sell profitable assets such as the yellow metal to meet margin calls or raise liquidity.

Interest rate hikes may weigh on gold prices. "Elevated real interest rates could increase the opportunity cost of holding a non-yielding asset such as gold," says Dhawan.

Higher US real yields and a stronger US dollar could act as significant headwinds.

What HDFC AMC's curbs signal

Experts are of the view that HDFC AMC introduced curbs on purchases to manage the surge in inflows into gold-linked assets after the rally. "The AMC may be keen to curb speculative frenzy," says Abhishek Kumar, Sebi-registered investment adviser and founder, SahajMoney.com. He adds that AMC's may be finding it difficult to source physical gold because of supply issues.

Experts suggest that investors should be cautious after such curbs. "The curbs act as a risk-management signal rather than a direct predictor of negative returns," adds Kumar.

Existing investors: Avoid lump-sum purchases

Existing investors should avoid allocating lump-sum capital to gold at current levels. They should review their portfolio's original asset allocation. "Consider booking partial profits if the recent rally has made you overweight," says Kumar.

New investors: Build exposure gradually

New investors, too, should avoid large lump-sum allocations. "Those who lack gold exposure should build allocation through a systematic investment plan (SIP)," says Kumar. They should cap their total gold exposure at 5-10 per cent of the total portfolio and enter with at least a seven-year horizon.

EPF rules: When can you withdraw 100% of corpus?

The Employees' Provident Fund (EPF) is designed as a retirement savings scheme, and Employees' Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO) rules allow members to withdraw up to 100 per cent of the balance only under exceptional circumstances. Full withdrawal may be permitted if an establishment remains closed or under lockout for more than 15 days and employees are not compensated; and where wages have not been paid for over two months.

Employees whose dismissal, discharge or retrenchment is being challenged in court can also seek withdrawal under the special-circumstances category. Another situation where full withdrawal is allowed is when an establishment has remained closed for more than six months.

EPFO also permits withdrawal for specified medical treatment needs of the member or eligible family members.

What should members do?
Check whether your situation falls under EPFO's eligible categories and keep supporting documents ready

- Ensure Aadhaar, PAN and bank details are linked to your UAN
- Verify your EPF balance before filing a claim
- Consider the impact on retirement savings before withdrawing the entire corpus
