We are actively pursuing large-ticket opportunities for FY28. Major order wins are helping reduce historical seasonality, with a more balanced H1–H2 revenue contribution targeted in FY28, although H2 is expected to remain stronger.

We are progressing from a technology platform company to an AI-driven solutions provider, supported by proprietary software development. The first phase of our in-house software solution is expected by January 2027, with the aim of improving profitability in order execution and advancing our OEM ambitions.
